What does Irena do? IRENA provides advice and support to governments on renewable energy policy, capacity building, and technology transfer. IRENA will also co-ordinate with existing renewable energy organizations, such as REN21.

Who are Irena's partners? International, intergovernmental and non-governmental organisations are natural and indispensable partners to IRENA, as are the many private-sector companies already seizing the opportunities offered by renewable energy.

Where is IRENA based? The agency is headquartered in Masdar City, Abu Dhabi. The Director-General of IRENA is Francesco La Camera, a national of Italy. IRENA is an official United Nations observer. The first suggestions for an international renewable agency is based on the 1980 Brandt Report activities.

What does Irena stand for? The International Renewable Energy Agency (IRENA) compiles and publishes statistics on the net generating capacity of renewable energy sources for electricity production, covering a period from 2013 to 2023.

What has Irena done since January 2023? This Annual Report presents an overview of the programmatic activities IRENA has undertaken since January 2023, reaffirming the Agency's position as a centre of excellence, a repository of policy, technology and financial knowledge, and the principal platform for international co-operation on renewable energy.
