What are Platts solar module price assessments? The Platts Solar Module price assessments are aimed at providing a transparent source of pricing data. Image: Trina Solar Recent volatility in PV module pricing has prompted Platts, part of global market data and benchmarking provider S&P Global Commodities, to launch a new daily spot market price assessment for modules in the US, Asia and Europe.

Why are solar module prices so volatile? Alongside growing demand, since the start of 2023, S&P Global said a combination of importation duties, oversupply and supply chain costs have led to significant solar module pricing volatility. The tool will track six different module spot prices, covering differing geographies, megawattage and time periods.

What is a solar module price assessment? The price assessments reflect solar modules with an output of 570-720W, TOPcon specification and wafer sizes of 182-210. Prices will be expressed in US cents per watt. In addition, the Platts Global Solar Module Marker is a daily average of the six individual solar module panel assessments, providing a global perspective of solar panel prices.

Are solar PPA prices on the rise? The report uncovered several critical findings: Solar PPA Prices on the Rise: P25 solar PPA prices across the nation increased by 4% in the third quarter, marking a 21% year-over-year growth. These price hikes were particularly prominent in specific Independent System Operators (ISOs) like PJM, SPP, and ISO-NE.

Are wind PPA prices stable? Wind PPA Prices Remain Stable: Wind P25 PPA prices in North America remained relatively steady, with only a 1% decrease during Q3. However, this followed a notable 13% increase in Q2, which was attributed to a supply shortage across various ISOs.
